

SCOUT DRIVE ASSISTANTS ARE CHOSEN

MANY LOCAL MEN TO COOPERATE IN DRIVE FOR 1932 SCOUT FUND

CAMPAIGN STARTS MONDAY

B. H. Bruner, Is Chairman And Harry Allan, Treasurer Of Local Scout Committee

The finance committee of the Greencastle District of the Boy Scouts of America, has selected the following group of men and asked them to give a part of their time on Monday, November 9, to the work of securing enough money to underwrite the work of this organization for the remaining months of 1931 and for the entire year of 1932. These men have been selected because of their interest in the community and their outstanding influence.

They will meet at 7:30 Monday morning for breakfast at the Methodist Church and receive their lists and instructions. The need for a character building organization, such as the Boy Scouts, is greater than it has ever been before. Juvenile crime is on the increase, and every energy which helps to stay this wave of crime is worthy of the support of every citizen. The local committee feels sure that the people of Greencastle will welcome this opportunity to make possible the work of this great organization in our midst.

If any person is not seen who wants to help, they may send their contribution either to the chairman of the committee, B. H. Bruner, or to the treasurer of the local organization, Harry Allan.

Members of the group selected follow: Harry Allan, L. H. Dirks, Capt. B. B. McMahon, Sam Hanna, C. D. Chapman, O. H. Smith, William Bishop, W. J. Yount, Jacob Bantz, John A. Egan, W. J. It was first stated that two prizes, $5 for first place and $2.50 for the second best paper would be given by the Granada. Because of the large number of manuscripts submitted by youngsters in this city and all over the county, a third prize of $1 has been added to the award list.

LEBANON JURY APPARENTLY DEADLOCKED

JURY ASKS FOR RE-READING OF INSTRUCTIONS AFTER 16 HOURS DELIBERATION

LEBANON, Ind., Nov. 4, (UP)—The jury weighing the case of Mrs. Carrie Simmons, charged with the poison murder of her daughter, Alice Jean, returned to the courtroom this morning to ask Judge John W. Hornaday to re-read a portion of his instructions.

The call for instructions came at 9:45 a. m., just 16 hours after the jury began its deliberations.

Ota Brown, who was named foreman of the jury, asked Judge Hornaday to repeat all the instructions.

When Judge Hornaday came to the portion dealing with credibility of testimony, Brown rose and said: "Your honor, I don't think we got that page very well."

Brown's statement was interpreted as meaning that the jury was confused over how much testimony they could admit or disregard as untrue.

Mrs. Simmons looked steadily at the jury as the instructions were repeated, occasionally glancing at the judge.

She sat with her daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband, John.

At 11:15 the case had been in the jury's hands 17 1/2 hours.

BEGIN FINAL ARGUMENTS

TOLEDO, Nov. 4, (UP)—The courtroom of Federal Judge John M. Killits was opened to spectators today as attorneys began final arguments in the trial of Nan Britton's $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion hotel keeper.

Newspaper men were the only ones on hand to take advantage of the open session which followed two days of closed court, ordered by Judge Killits "for the protection of public morals."

His action in rescinding his order came as a surprise and no spectators were in the corridors when court convened. Attorneys immediately began arguments.

BAFFIN LAND NATIVE GIVES ESKIMO TALK

MRS. ELIZABETH BLACKMORE PICTURES HER PEOPLE BEFORE CAPACITY AUDIENCE

WILL RETURN HERE SOON

Closes Address By Playing Eskimo Songs While Daughter Sings In Native Tongue

All conceptions of the Eskimo, his mode of life, his tribal customs and his personal habits were shattered by Mrs. Elizabeth Blackmore, a native of Baffin Land who spoke before a large audience in the Presbyterian Church Tuesday night. Mrs. Blackmore appeared here under the auspices of the Greencastle chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority. The church was filled even to the choir loft to hear her.

Mrs. Blackmore spoke in a slightly broken English but the things she told about her native land and its people were so interesting that one immediately forgot any English defect of speech. The speaker came from English parents who had gone to Baffin Land as fur traders shortly after they had been married. Mrs. Blackmore was born, reared and married in this little known land. Her family was the only white people on the entire island, the others being native Eskimos.

She appeared in native costume, a deer skin suit which she explained was the summer apparel of her people. She explained the various parts of the costume, the sack for carrying the baby on the back, the pockets, the hood even to the band for the hair. Winter temperatures range from 60 to 70 degrees below zero but it is a dry cold and less disagreeable than our Hoosier winters.

The Baffin Eskimo is different from the Labrador, Eskimo. She said, being still in the native state while Missionaries have brought schools and Christianity to the latter. Only once each year as a ship comes to the island, do these people have any contact with the outside world. The ship comes to trade for furs, oils, and ivory tusks.

The speaker disillusioned those who believed that the Eskimo subsisted on blubber. They eat very little fat, she said. Meat is eaten raw and no vegetables are to be had. Raw meat, however, is not as we would conceive it, for the meat is allowed to freeze until every bit of moisture is driven out. It is then so dry as to be crumbled.

No trees or stumps are to be found in Baffin land and wood is secured from drift along the beaches. The people are nomadic, traveling from place to place as the hunting seasons change. Fish also forms a part of the diet. There are no contagious diseases among her people, she said, but death is more apt to be due to accident such as drowning, being covered by an avalanche of snow, freezing, wounds from spear or gun or attacked by an animal.

Queerly enough, these people have a spoken and written language. There are no illiterates, every Eskimo child being taught to read, write and speak. The language is written on the smooth side of skins and is in type like shorthand and can be written as rapidly as it is spoken. She showed a sample letter.

Housewives who must clean house each spring and fall were pitted by Mrs. Blackmore who stated that her people clean house by knocking down the old one and building another beside it. Eskimo houses are made from snow and not from ice. The winter snow falls heavily for five or six days then comes a hurricane wind which packs it so hard that one can walk across the snow without sinking. In the summer the Eskimos live in tents made from skin.

The Eskimo mother is kept busy tanning and sewing pelts. Clothes are thrown away as soon as they become the least worn. Sewing is done with the sinew of the deer for thread. Even the children learn to make their own clothing starting at the age of twelve. For toys, the Eskimo has few. A skull from some small animal, a string and a sort of spike made what Mrs. Blackmore termed a "Yo-Yo". She demonstrated its use. Children have their dolls which they dress in animal skins.

Mrs. Blackmore concluded her talk with a story in which she told of her first experience with a white man. A sailor from the yearly ship caught her peeping at them unloading supplies and promised her a gift if she would speak to him in English. The gift proved to be an accordion which she learned to play. The speaker then concluded her address by playing both Eskimo and English songs which were sung by her daughter. The daughter is a student at Butler now and as soon as the three children receive their education it is the plan of Mrs. Blackmore to return to Baffin Land.

An instrumental trio composed of Miss Jean Maggee, piano, Miss Dorothy Moore, cello, and Miss Margaret Jones, violin, played before and after Mrs. Blackmore's address. Many of the audience gathered about Mrs. Blackmore following her talk and besieged her with questions and examined her strange costume. A demand on the part of those who heard her, has caused Delta Theta Tau to announce that she will be brought here again within a short time, for a second address.

NEGLECT CASE IS BROUGHT TO A SUDDEN END

JUDGE HUGHES DISMISSES AFFIDAVIT AGAINST CECIL ELLIS AFTER LECTURE

Jury trial of the child neglect case of the state of Indiana against Cecil Ellis, Greencastle man, was brought to a sudden close in the Putnam circuit court Wednesday morning at 10:45 o'clock after a jury had been selected and two witnesses had testified.

Judge James P. Hughes took the case from the jury and dismissed the affidavit filed by Mrs. Ellis, after testimony of the wife showed she had been able to purchase provisions for herself and children on credit. The other witness was Orville Stewart, superintendent of the Greencastle Water Company, who stated that he had been forced to dismiss Ellis, an employee of ten years, for drinking.

Judge Hughes after hearing testimony of the two witnesses, placed Ellis in the witness chair and then told the jury he was taking the case away from them because no verdict was possible under the evidence. He severely lectured Ellis, however, and stated that unless he ceased attentions to another woman and stayed with and provided for his two sons, 11 and 7 years old, a charge of contributing to their delinquency would be filed against him.

Theodore Crawley was attorney for Ellis while Prosecutor Marshall Abrams represented the state.

WHEAT RISE EXPLAINED BY OLD TRADER

ARTHUR CUTTEN, VETERAN GRAIN EXCHANGE TRADER, ISSUES STATEMENT

PAINTS OPTIMISTIC PICTURE

Wheat Now Selling For $1 Bushel After Sinking To Lowest Level In History

CHICAGO, Nov. 4, (UP)—Arthur Cutten, veteran grain trader who has owned more wheat at one time than any other man, today explained to the United Press the rising grain market which has brought millions to American farmers in the last few weeks on the basis of supply and demand.

Concerning reports he had made a fortune out of the wheat market on the rise, Cutten said he could make no statement.

"That would hurt the market," he said.

The white-haired trader known in the wheat pits as "the biggest bull of them all" explained why, in his opinion, the rise was taking place.

"Today Amber Durum wheat sold at $1 a bushel in Minneapolis. That's what the papers ought to print. Look here. Number 2 Amber Durum wheat was 69 5-8 to 95 5-8 cents. And Durum wheat usually sells at a discount under Northern.

"That's why wheat is going up."

He pointed out that the American market was lower than any other.

"Winnipeg is selling wheat, lots of it, at higher prices than we are. Liverpool is a shilling over Chicago. There's a demand for wheat or it wouldn't go up."

Cutten said he did not know whether Germany was reselling wheat bought from the farm board at a profit, but thought it was "a good idea."

"Maybe the Germans are doing that, I don't know," he said.

As for being "behind the market," Cutten said:

"You don't see any orders for half a million bushels of wheat coming into the market, do you? It's all little orders. Big men don't do things like that. The public, however, is not in this market to any extent."

While Cutten carefully refrained from any prediction as to the course of the market, he painted a decidedly optimistic picture.

"You may say," he said, "that the market is fundamentally sound."

LOCAL CHURCH WILL BE HOST FOR MEETING

1-DAY CONVENTION AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH ON MONDAY NOV. 9TH

The First Christian Church of Greencastle will entertain the one day convention of the Christian churches of the Western District of the state on Monday, November 9. This convention is one of the ninth annual series of one-day conventions which are being held in thirty-nine states and provinces of the United States and Canada November 2-20. These conventions are promoted by the United Christian Missionary Society. Last year 185 conventions were held with a total attendance of 49,865. This year 218 have been scheduled, and even greater results are expected.

In one day those attending the convention get a world wide view of the Christian service they are making possible through their church. Preachers and laymen meet together with missionaries and other leaders, and together they face the responsibilities of the brotherhood work which they enjoy as a common task.

These one-day conventions have become one of the greatest enterprises of the Disciples of Christ and one of the most effective means of presenting the broad work of their communion.

An outstanding feature of the convention is the church leaders' banquet at 6:30 p. m. This is for all members of the church, but the church officers and other leaders are especially urged to be present. The banquet program includes speakers with first hand information about the world-wide service of Disciples of Christ. The tickets are 50 cents.

Another feature of the convention is the stewardship hour, an hour given over to a discussion of problems which will be of keen interest to the local churches. In the present emergency stewardship is an answer, a challenge to the strength that has not been fully applied.

The general theme of the convention is "Our Message is Jesus Christ."

Three sessions will be held beginning at 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m., and the evening session held about the banquet table at 6:30. Speakers will include a missionary, a national leader, a guest speaker, a representative of state missions, a speaker on stewardship and a representative of women's work.

Property owners paying assessments in cash must do so within 30 days while those paying under the Barrett Law will make their first payment next spring. Assessments under $10 must be paid in cash.

MAJORITY IN HOUSE IS WON BY DEMOCRATS

LOOK FORWARD TO ELECTING SPEAKER AND CONTROL OF COMMITTEES

ELECTIONS HELD THURSDAY

Republicans Win 218 Seats Which Is Two Short Of Democratic Total In House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4, (UP)—Democrats gained a numerical majority in the House of Representatives in yesterday's elections and looked forward to electing a speaker and taking control of committees when Congress meets December 7.

Some doubt still remained, however, as to which party would actually gain command on the show-down. It is yet possible for the Republicans to create a tie. In this case the result might turn on absentees and private deals for individual defections impossible to foresee.

"The election of Michael J. Hart, Democrat, in the eighth Michigan district, makes me doubly certain of a Democratic house," Rep. John M. Garner, Democratic candidate for speaker, told the United Press at his home in Uvalde, Tex.

The elections resulted in the following House strength: Democrats, 217. Republicans, 215. Vacancies, 2.

Democrats were cheered by the results if the scattered voting throughout the country despite the fact it was not regarded generally as conclusive as to the drift of sentiment in relation to next year's presidential race.

In New York state, Democrats failed to get control of the Assembly though they needed to gain only six seats. They also failed, in a hard fight, to seize the old Longworth congressional seat in Ohio, Republicans holding it with an easy lead for John B. Hollister.

Democrats attached importance to the election of Former Governor A. Harry Moore as governor of New Jersey over David Baird, Jr., Republican, whose election was urged by administration spokesmen as a gesture of moral support for President Hoover. Democrats also showed strength in a number of municipal elections. Kentucky elected a new governor but the count will not be known until probably late today.

Confusion of the House situation, which has existed since the close results a year ago, appeared destined to continue. Democrats gained the Michigan seat through election of Hart, the first Democrat to get it in 33 years. They held two other seats in the 20th and 7th New York districts. Republicans retained the first Ohio or Longworth district and the second Pennsylvania.

Night Coughing Quickly Stopped

Night coughing is almost always caused by an irritated, inflamed throat; so is almost all coughing. Ordinary cough syrups do not reach these conditions, but Thoxine, a prescription exclusively for throat troubles, does. It relieves the irritation and the cough stops within 15 minutes. And Thoxine goes still further—it eliminates the internal cause which many times develops into serious illness.

A swallow of Thoxine before retiring absolutely prevents night coughing and insures a good night's sleep. It gives the same speedy relief for sore throat too. It contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and children like it. Relief is guaranteed within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. - All Drug-ists.

OPEN HOUSE AT LABATORY

THURSDAY NIGHT

"Open House" for remodeled Minshall laboratory will be held tomorrow evening according to Dr. W. D. Blanchard, dean of the college of liberal arts at DePauw and head of the department of chemistry. Dr. Blanchard has secured Dr. George L. Clark of the University of Illinois for a short non-technical talk that will be of interest to students, faculty members and townspeople. Dr. Clark will talk in the new chemistry lecture room which has been built onto the rear of Minshall laboratory, on the subject, "Chemistry's New Vision of the Material World."

Dr. Clark's address will begin at 7 o'clock and at 8 o'clock a complete inspection of the renovated building will begin. The changes that have been wrought in this building makes it one of the most complete, well lighted and sanitary science buildings to be found in the state. Each floor is being given over to some specific science. The departments of physics and geology have quarters here along with the chemistry department. Every one is invited to this informal reception.

Walls have been redecorated, new lighting fixtures installed, new desks and everything to make working conditions better for science students. Dr. Blanchard announced that an increase in enrollment for chemistry had been noted for this year.

Local Man Says Hoyt's Banished His Suffering

Hoyt's Compound Accomplished
What Others Had Failed
To Do

Thousands of victims of stomach, liver, kidney or bowel disorders or rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness or generally weakened conditions have found Hoyt's Compound to be just the medicine they have been looking for. Hoyt's Compound is a mixture of nature's purest roots and herbs, combined with Potassium Iodide to make one of the best general system tonics known. Each ingredient has its own mission to perform and it does perform that mission quickly and thoroughly.

Read what Mr. Morton O. Lyon, a resident of your community has to say about his experience with the Hoyt's Compound. Mr. Lyon is a section hand on the Big Four railroad and has lived around Greencastle for over nine years. He now resides on Rural Route No. 5.
Mr. Lyon says:
"For many long years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble and a generally weakened condition.
Terrible gas formed on my stomach and bloated me so that sometimes I was afraid that my stomach would burst. I could never eat any rich foods or the things I wanted. There was a burning in the pit of my stomach, which felt like fire. Sometimes this stomach gas affected my breathing. I was constipated and in a generally rundown condition, I had severe headaches also.
"I had kidney trouble also, and I don't believe that I have had a real night's rest in three years. I suffered from a dull pain and weak feelings across my back and had an intense soreness in my side. I rolled and tossed all night long and was forced to rise several times.
When I got up of a morning I was tired and stiff and could hardly bend over to lace my shoes. I had dizzy spells and black specks would dance before my eyes.
"But in Hoyt's Compound I found the medicine I should have had in the first place. Hoyt's has given me back my health and I can eat anything I want now. My kidneys are 100 percent better and I rest good at night. I am 65 years old and I am feeling better than I have in years. I am sure a Hoyt booster."

tional Cut Rate, South Side the Square, Greencastle. Hoyt's Compound is also sold by all the leading drug stores everywhere.

Chapter XVII

THE SECRET SIX

For a moment there was dead
silence in the courtroom.
Then a whisper started, increased,
until it became a crescendo of anger.
The judge rapped for silence with an incredulous frown he turned to the jury.
"You are discharged from further duty as jurors," he declared. "In all my career on the bench I have never heard such an outrageous verdict."
Newton pulled at Scorpio's arm.
"Let's get out quick!"
The crowd was milling angrily.
Newton hurried his client through the corridor and down the steps.
Their big car was already waiting
into it they rushed.
A stone flew from the gathering
crowd.
It struck the bullet-proof glass of the car Scorpio grinned.
"To tonto—to the steak house!"
ordered Newton.
By now the shouts of the crowd had become a roar. Scorpio's car leaped forward into the night.
"Can you beat their nerve," said Scorpio, "sore because an innocent man was set free. I'd like to toss a pineapple into that mob!"
Newton was worried.
"How about Carl Luckner, chief?"
"Clever boy," said Newton, "a little too clever." And his words were prophetic of evil.
As their car rolled into Centro, a taxi cab was following. In it was Carl. He waited until the three men had gone upstairs. Then he sauntered casually into the steak house. The waiters all knew him so his being there attracted no attention. Whistling casually he ambled over to the slot machine.
"Hello, beautiful," he said to the new machine. "Where did you come from?"
"A stork brought me."

said Eddie. "Feels pretty good about the trial. Guess he wants you to get him a layout in the Sunday papers."
Eddie couldn't see Carl's smile.
"I'll give him a lay-out—gladly."
They reached the door of Scorpio's office.
It was opened by Scorpio himself.
He was grinning pleasantly.
"Well, if here ain't my old pal Carl! Come right in, kid. I'm awful glad to see you."
Carl hesitated a moment. Then he stepped into the office.
As the door closed behind him one of the mob struck him over the head with a blackjack. And Scorpio laughed as Carl crashed to the floor.
The gang laughed again as Carl staggered to his feet. A trickle of blood running from his mouth.
"My old pal Carl," Scorpio kept repeating, rolling the phrase over and over on his tongue.
Carl rocked on his feet, reaching for the table to steady himself. It was several minutes before the reeling faces that surrounded him came into sharp focus.
He knew. And he knew that they knew.
"Well, the game's up. I suppose I'm going for a ride," he said quietly.
"You sure are," grinned Scorpio,
"but you're going to do some talking first."
Newton, who had remained in the background, now came forward.
"Who are the Secret Six?" he demanded.
Carl hesitated before he answered.
"I don't know."
A stinging blow from Scorpio.
"You'd better know. Plenty where that came from!"
Again Carl's legs crouched under him and he staggered back against the wall. It was then that he saw Anne, like himself, a prisoner of Scorpio.
"What are you going to do with her?"
"We just didn't want you to be

"Well, I suppose I am going for a ride," said Carl. "You sure are," promised Scorpio.

"I wish he'd bring me one. Change five dollars for me? I want to try my luck."
With his back turned to the stairway, he indifferently plugged quarters into the machine, but his eyes watched through the long mirror, missing nothing.
One by one he saw the gang steal
in through the back door and start up the steps to Scorpio's office.
It was evident that Newton had called them there.
Six, ten, eighteen... within half an hour thirty men had gone upstairs
—all the gang leaders.
Carl drifted back to the telephone.
"Mind if I use your phone, beautiful?"
"Go ahead! Shoot!"
"Main 1238. Give me station 42.
Hello... this is Carl Luckner speaking... just came down to say hello to my old pal Scorpio. In fact all the boys have drifted in here to congratulate him. Sure. I'll phone you later. O.K."
Donlan at the other end of the wire
was turned to the six masked men.
"It was Luckner... phoning from Scorpio's headquarters. He says the gang are all there. Gentlemen, are we ready?"
"I'm ready for them! Here are warrants from the department of Justice for all of them."
The district attorney leaned forward eagerly.
"What are they charged with?"
"Fraudulent income tax returns."
"And I've got them on arson," said
the second masked man.
A third masked man stepped forward. "And here are deportation warrants for half of them."
"As representative of the Bar Association of America, I can assure you that Newton will be disbarred."
There was a smile of triumph on the district attorney's face. "That means no more fixed juries."
"The Secret Service is back of you,
gentlemen."
"And the American Legion."
"Are you ready, Donlan?" asked the district attorney.
"You bet I'm ready," from Donlan.
"This time there is no escape."

TRAPPED
As Carl walked easily away from the telephone in the steak house, he saw the last of the gang drifting up the stairs.
He knew that Donlan understood his message and that within half an hour an impenetrable cordon of the law would coil around Centro.
He had just decided to drift over to the police station and await developments when Scorpio's guard, Eddie, hurried down the stairs, to stop him.
"Hello, Carl," with a friendly smile.
Scorpio heard you were here...
wants you to come upstairs for a minute.
"What for?" asked Carl, not without a slight suspicion.
"He's on the up and up tonight."

What Do I Owe Any Local Merchant?

We are all free American citizens and it is our right and privilege to spend our money
where we please.

Money spent at home moves in a cycle favorable to the interests of very individual in the community.

The retail stores in this city are not just places where you can buy articles to fill in your daily needs. The merchants of Greencastle have for years been tirelessly working to provide a shopping center of which the citizens of this city can be proud.

Every dollar spent away from Greencastle
for something that could just as easily and economically be purchased at any Greencastle stores does not help this city. If by chance you have thoughtlessly overlooked the part the Greencastle stores play in upbuilding this City,
it may be well to give this matter more serious consideration.

Quality and price being equal, make all your purchases from Greencastle stores.

THEY WANT TO SERVE YOU.

RED CROSS NURSES PROTECT HEALTH OF FUTURE CITIZENS

Red Cross nutritionists have taught Little Miss Muffett proper food habits.
At right, this little girl's best friend is the Red Cross Public Health nurse.

THE grave necessity for the protection of children and mothers' health, if good physical standards of the American race are to be maintained in the future, is illustrated in statistics made public by the American Red Cross in connection with its health services in Red Cross Chapters.
Of the 45,000,000 children in this country, only about 35,000,000 are reasonably normal. The greatest malade to children's health is through malnutrition; 6,000,000 children are shown to be improperly nourished. The second most prolific defect is in impaired hearing—3,000,000 children suffering from this. Weak and damaged hearts and defective speech affect one million children each, and lesser numbers are affected by being mentally re-sands of children through schools, and mothers through adult classes, teaching proper food selection and food habits. The 769 Red-Cross public health nurses made 1,338,559 visits

during the past year.
This highly important work by the Red Cross is supported through funds resulting from the annual roll call for members, which occurs from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. By enrolling as members in Red Cross Chapters, all citizens participate in this drive for better health for mothers and children.

LAST PAROLE TO SEE GIRL HE NEVER SAW IN JAIL

DETROIT, (UP)—Walter White, 25, has gone to prison for trying to see a girl he never saw, but with whom he struck up a speaking acquaintance via an air shaft when both were held in county jail.

Genevieve Finney, 19, the girl, was charged with robbery, not armed. White was charged with assault with intent to rob. While in his cell White read of Miss Finney in the newspapers, and the speaking acquaintance followed. They agreed to meet if they obtained probation. Both did, but one of the terms was that White must not associate, or seek to associate, with any person on probation. White, however, called at Miss Finney's home. Her father said she was away. Later White was arrested and his probation revoked because he tried to see the girl. He will serve from two to six years.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCEMENT

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 3.—Twenty years ago this past week an infant company destined for a hardy growth entered the family of automotive manufacturers, with the incorporation, on Nov. 3, 1911, of the Chevrolet Motor Company of Michigan.

That span of two decades covers probably the most remarkable growth in this remarkable of all industries. During the twenty years following the completion of the first Chevrolet, nearly 8,000,000 units had been built—a record unequalled by any other automotive manufacturer in the world.

Twenty years ago the cradle of the infant company was a small work shop on Grand River Avenue, Detroit, where Louis Chevrolet built experimental cars, not more than four of five that first year. Today the production organization numbers twenty domestic plants which produced a four year average of more than a million cars a year.

Although operations were started in Detroit, the small shop where the first car was built soon yielded to a larger plant also in the Motor City. Here the company remained until 1913, and the transferred operations to Flint, Mich., although New York City and Tarrytown, N. Y., also occupied prominent places in the early years.

STATE FARM BUREAU MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A statewide campaign for 1932 members of the Indiana Farm Bureau will open next Monday, November 9 in the seventh farm bureau district. M. C. Townsend, state director of organization announces a goal of 80,000 men and women members for the state in 1932. This total represents practically a ten per cent increase over the membership of the present year.

The value of the organization has been established, and at no time have farm organizations been recognized so widely as now," says Mr. Townsend. "Only through a strong, united effort by the farmers of Indiana will they be able to secure fair legislation, stable markets, social equality and adequate living standards. "The spirit of brotherly love and first for organization of solicitors and the second for the solicitation of new members, through a house-to-house canvass in every county and township. It is expected that thousands of volunteer solicitors will be in action during the state-wide campaign.

The work of securing the new members for 1932 will cover a period of several weeks culminating with the drive in the ninth district February 1 to 11, according to Mr. Townsend. Ninety of the ninety-two counties in the state have local organizations through which the solicitation for new members will be made. A membership fee collected by the county unit entitles the member to affiliate with the Indiana Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau Federation and also entitles him or her to share in all benefits.

"The moral sense of the farmers during the past year has been the advancement of the farm upon to meet the needs of the future. It is every farmer's duty to maintain the spirit of mutual help and co-operation that has been the foundation upon which the farm is built."

helpfulness has been another through the farm bureau. Every farmer should be a member of the farm bureau. It is the duty of every farmer to be a member of the farm bureau. It is the duty of every farmer to be a member of the farm bureau.

"Gigantic campaign and purchasing power built in the past year. These never could be present position of the farm. It is the duty of every farmer to be a member of the farm bureau. It is the duty of every farmer to be a member of the farm bureau."

"The moral sense of the farmers during the past year has been the advancement of the farm upon to meet the needs of the future. It is every farmer's duty to maintain the spirit of mutual help and co-operation that has been the foundation upon which the farm is built."

Council Plans Full Weekend For Visit Of Dads Saturday

Play, Cross-Country, Two Football Games, Dinners, Vespers Are Highlights

The coming of Dads' day, Saturday Nov. 7, will mark another eventful weekend on the DePauw campus.

Festivities will open with the presentation of the play "The Butter and Egg Man" at the Little Theater Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Saturday morning all freshmen will participate in the annual four-mile cross-country run. This event is scheduled at 11 o'clock. The DePauw freshman football squad will be hosts to the freshmen team of State Normal of Terre Haute in a game on Blackstock field at 10 o'clock.

The highlight of the program will be the football game between DePauw and Ohio university Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. About three hundred boy scouts of Wabash valley will be guests at the afternoon game, and if they follow the custom of previous years, they will present a demonstration at the half.

Most of the seats have been reserved for the DePauw-Ohio university game, and another record crowd is expected.

A dinner will be served for all dads at 6 o'clock. Dean Louis H. Dirks will preside at the dinner at Longden hall which will be held for the dads of the men of the University. Vice President Longden will be the speaker of the occasion. Dean Katherine S. Alvord will be in charge of the dinner at Rector hall for the dads of the coeds. Roy O. West, president of the Board of Trustees, will be the speaker of the event.

Saturday evening the play "The Butter and Egg Man" will be duplicated.

Many visitors are expected to attend the vespers service Sunday evening to hear Lewis Browne, who is the author of an interpretive biography of Heinrich Heine, and an authority on comparative religions.

PAINTING IS PRESENTED TO UNIVERSITY

HOMER DAVISSON IS SPEAKER AT DEPAUW CHAPEL WEDNESDAY

Homer Davisson, internationally known artist whose home is in Fort Wayne, presented DePauw university with one of his latest paintings in a special chapel service today. Mr. Davisson, who is a DePauw alumnus and former member of the faculty, won the Edward Rector award in the Hoosier Art Salon last year. The painting presented to DePauw will be hung in Lucy Rowland hall, girls dormitory presented to DePauw by Mr. Rector and named in honor of his wife.

In a short talk before the DePauw student body, Mr. Davisson discussed the career of an artist and named some of its advantages and disadvantages. The requirements of an artist, he said, are similar to the constitutional requirements for a lawyer in the state of Indiana. To be admitted to the practice of law, one need only have a good moral character. To be admitted into the world of the artist, one need not have even this requirement.

He spoke of artists being divided into two classes, those engaged in commercial art and those engaged in the fine arts. The two fields converge into each other with little or no distinction, he said. There is a vast field for both but great competition. Any one with the desire, grit and determination, plus a little talent, can succeed.

Mr. Davisson received his first start at DePauw while a student in the late '90's. He was instructor in the old DePauw art school for a year. Since that time he has done much painting abroad and in the Brown county colony. This year an exhibit of his works was brought to the DePauw campus and hung in Asbury hall. Mr. Davisson also did some original painting on the campus and two campus views of the university library were made and hung in the chapel along with the painting presented to the university.

The painting was accepted on behalf of the university by Dr. Henry B. Longden, vice-president of DePauw and acting president in the absence of Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam who is in Japan on an educational survey. Mrs. Davisson was also present with her husband.

RAILROADS USED

SMOKE SIGNALS
DENVER, Colo. (UP)—Railroad signal systems have traveled a long way since engineers sent up a smoke screen to let the other fellow know the track was in use, but, then, so has F. A. Weideman.

Weideman pilot of the Columbine, Denver-Chicago limited, has been riding in an engine cab for 32 years.

"We had to use Indian methods of signaling for safety," Weideman said. "We'd made the old fire box belch up a smoke cloud that could be seen for miles."

"If any one else was using the People who live in glass houses mustn't throw stones—but those who reside in grass houses can't be too careful about lighting matches. Andy, who has vainly sought work, has joined a colony of other grass hut dwellers in a Pittsburgh park.

track, he would take the hint and clear it."

After 32 years of riding, the veteran engineer declared there was much about life one could learn from railroading.

"Every man is his own engineer," he philosophized. "He goes down the track of life and has to observe the go ahead as well as the danger lights."

He maintains there still is a career in railroading for the young man but said it was not a learn-in-ten-lessons proposition.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe, comfortable, speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago."

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.
